How to Identify, Describe, & Visually Document

Oh! Identifying an artwork means naming it and saying who made it. When we describe it, we talk about what it looks like and its meaning.

Correct!

Third, when you visually document an artwork, you are collecting text, images, graphics, charts, and more information about it.

So you put all your facts together and then come up with a way to visually arrange it so it's easy to understand?

Wow! Can I see the painting?

Sure, let's go!
